

Here and now

Dreams and memories, are things that makes our life.

As we walk the earth and time keeps flying by.

What our future holds are nothing we can see.

And the past does it really exist? Does it exist?

Things that we've been through it makes us who we are

But we tend to linger in the future or the past

We speak of things that's been and make up future plans

And hopes for life to start as it rolls before our eyes, before our eyes

Your time is here and now, do not loose it as it pass

Do not let it go as you make up future plans

Don't sit around and wait for the chance to come along

Because it's here and now so take controll right now

We are only Immortal for a little while

Then we're growing up and time is thinking by

Is the meaning of life to look upon a screen?

And loose ourselves in a virtual dream? A virtual dream

Your time is here and now...

Your time is here and now. Do not let it go
Don't sit around and wait. Because it's here and now

Now the sun goes down and what have you done today?
Have you met your friends or just watched them on your screen?

Please don't sit around and let time choose for you
No lay your hands upon the wheel and steer it the whole way through, the whole way through

Your time is here and now...
