

The book of history

Do you ever get to think of long cold days and big black nights?

When all we knew by now had never come to light

Or just how strange the world did look for thousands years ago

When mankind didn't know so much

Do you believe in great old stories about Kings and Knights of shining?

Who fights for queens and make the other young girls crying

Or do you just care about what's the best for you right now

Do you ever think of long lost friends?

See me, here I am. See me I'm back again

See me, here I am. See me I'm home again

Do you believe in things that you can't see or feel?

Can you believe in people who just make handshake deals?

Sometimes I get the feeling that you don't care at all

Sometimes I don't know you at all

See me, here I am...

Come out, from the world you have inside

Come out, and share the light

Come out, and see what might be true

Come out, I'm missing you

Do you believe when I say that the world we know will end?

Or do you believe that all the pieces we can mend?

Another page is done in the book of history

Or is it just a mystery?
